Jacqui Wilson-Smith ('90)

Jacqui Wilson-Smith is the Global Innovation Manager for global spice leader McCormick & Company Inc. She is also Chair and a co-founder of FAN - Food & Agribusiness Network, a not-for-profit organisation designed to promote collaboration and openness along the value chain from farmers to exporters and everything in between. Jacqui is also the winner of the Queensland Rural Women's Award for 2017.

Since 2009, Jacqui has led a team of innovative thinkers at Gourmet Garden (acquired by McCormick in April 2016) to put the customer's journey first. In 2014, through her unique approach, an award winning revolutionary herb system for busy cooks was launched and won a Good Design Award 2014, Product of the Year 2015, a World Star Packaging Organization Award in 2015, and ultimately more than doubled sales in the category.

Jacqui's insightful and energetic approach inspires others to embrace innovative thinking, to challenge internal business practices, and refine and revise how, what and when we communicate – by looking through the lens of our customer.

Bronwyn Ninai ('16)

Bronwyn Ninai was announced as the OGA Prize Winner for 2016. Bronwyn was a Boarder, Prefect and Sacristan in her final year of school and is beginning her Bachelor of Economics at The University of Queensland and is hoping to major in International Trade and Finance or Economic and Public Policy.
