

The St Margaret's Past Students Awards

YOUNG PAST STUDENT OF DISTINCTION AWARD 2016

Nisha Srinivasan
Graduation: 2000

Nisha Srinivasan is passionate about the social and economic inclusion of disadvantaged communities. She has over ten years' experience in social policy, advisory and project management in the Australian public service, overseas in international development, and in the university and not-for-profit sectors. She is currently a manager at Cancer Council Victoria, working with disadvantaged communities to prevent and detect cancer early; and a board member at 100 Story Building, a social enterprise improving the self-esteem and literacy skills of disadvantaged children.

Nisha has tutored and mentored refugees and migrants, counselled young people through lifeline, led disadvantaged youth on Edmund Rice Camps, supported the disabled to participate in society, and volunteered at domestic violence crisis centres.

Nisha has a degree in commerce/psychology and a Masters of International Development.
